Snapchat Snapmap Feature: Information for all who have used or currently use Snapchat ...

Snapchat's most recent update has a new feature called Snapmap which publishes location data when it is opened. This means it can publish both your home and work locations. Location services have to be turned on and access granted through the snapmap settings, however location data is available to either the full friends list or by filtering on certain friends. This can be turned off by enabling 'Ghost Mode' within snapmap. To enter the settings, enter selfie mode and zoom away with your fingers.
